

Assignment 4

Due Sunday, November 18th by 11:59PM (CST)

No lengthy assignment instructions here because this one is more straightforward and mostly a redo. It's time to see what you can do with an editor. You can use any free or paid editors such as Dreamweaver to recreate your site. You can also use some of the free hosting sites that have editors and templates built in. Sites such as Wix.com or Wordpress.com are free sites you can use to create some pretty professional websites using templates and editors. In addition to recreating the site you've already built, you need to implement at least three new pages in your phase two priorities from your design documents.

When you're done, either submit the URL for your site in the text/comments box on the assignment if you are using one of the online tools or zip up all of your new files and submit them here by the due date. This one should be fun, but I want you to keep in mind your customers and your design documents because you will revisit them in relationship to your site in the last phase of the project.
